Cled Richards provides business support and for livestock farmers in West Wales. His expertise is in delivering business and technical advice to large dairy farms. Cled specialises in advising dairy farmers on low cost production systems.

With farmers facing increased bureaucracy and paper work, the office in Carmarthen also provides a farm management and administration service, namely Agri Angels. This is operated by Cled's colleagues Arwel Davies and Huw Thomas.

Cled Richards is also involved with farm management, advising on business structures including contract farming agreements. Cled works on client's behalf to obtain planning permission for agricultural dwellings and buildings. Cled facilitates several dairy discussion groups and works closely with the Welsh Dairy Development Centre and Farming Connect.

Arwel Davies provides farm management advice alongside Cled Richards. Arwel specialises in providing practical advice and administration for farming businesses including management accounts, analysis of production costs and maintaining livestock records for management and technical advice. Specific software packages are used, enabling technical and business performance to be evaluated.

Arwel delivers advice on the Single Farm Payment, trading of entitlements and rural development schemes.

Arwel facilitates and runs dairy discussion groups and works closely with the Welsh Dairy Development Centre. Arwel also inputs data for DairyCo Milk Bench and Milk Bench+.
